HAL GRISWOLD CONSIDERING SUSPENSION OF P. E. THOMAS PENDING PROBE OF TRAGEDY

BY JOHN J. VINCENT
COLUMBUS, O., April 22.—State Welfare Director Hal H. Griswold today admitted that he is considering the suspension of Warden P. E. Thomas, "pending a full investigation of the appalling Ohio Penitentiary fire tragedy last night, resulting in the death of 317 prisoners."

"Where were the keys?"

Satisfied that the answer to that question will fix the responsibility for the prison holocaust at the Ohio State Penitentiary here yesterday evening where more than 300 convicts perished, State Welfare Director Hal H. Griswold today continued the commonwealth's official investigation into the greatest prison fire in the history of the nation.

GRISWOLD ON SCENE

Hardly had the terrified screams of the injured and dying ceased, than Director Griswold was on the scene, demanding to know why the prisoners had not been released from their cells when the fire grew serious.

"Where were the keys to those cells?" demanded Griswold.

And one after another, six witnesses paraded before him and told incoherent stories as to what became of the keys, the life bars to the trapped convicts in the blazing inferno of tiers of cells. The witnesses admitted that they didn't know.

The keys to the cells, it was explained, were kept in the guard room more than 300 yards across the prison courtyard from the burning cell block. They disappeared quickly after the fire. None of the witnesses could account for them. There were 12 keys. Only a few were accounted for.

But then, grimly enough, there's no use for them now.

Warden P. E. Thomas, of the penitentiary, in a statement to the director, declared that he was in his residence in the front of the prison when he heard the cry, "Fire!"

DIDN'T KNOW GUARD

"I rushed to the guard room," he said, "There I turned in a second fire alarm." After calling to a guard to get the keys I ran outside the prison where I posted guards in case a concentrated effort to escape was made."

"Who was that guard," asked Griswold.

"I don't know," replied the warden.

Sergeant Edward Jenkins, of the guards, told an almost similar story. He, too, said he had turned in a second alarm, and after running to the scene, had returned to the guardroom and then went outside the walls to see that guards were around the prison.

"What were your instructions in case of such a fire," queried the welfare director.

"I didn't have any, we don't have fires so often," was the reply.

James C. Woodard, deputy warden, next assumed the witness chair, which in this instance, changed to be a large unholstered chair in the luxurious living quarters of the warden.

Woodard, who seemed to have aged several years during those few terrifying hours of the disaster, slowly told his story as follows:

"I was two squares away from the prison, enroute home, when great billows of smoke came belching over the walls. I rushed to the prison."

"I ran through the guardroom into the prison courtyard. Flames were eating at the center section of the cell block. I obtained some fire ladders and placed them against the windows. By the time I reached the prison, some of the cells had been unlocked."

"Where were the keys to the cells," he demanded again. "How many are there?"

Woodard continued:

SAYS KEYS GONE

"There are 12 keys. They hang on hooks in the guardroom. There are two keys for each tier of cells. They were gone."

"As I rushed through the yard, prisoners were screaming. I went back to the guardroom and got keys to the adjoining cell block and freed the panic-stricken prisoners there."

"Some of the firemen were then trying to liberate prisoners in the burning cell block. They had axes and were forcing the bars apart. The convicts in the first four tiers were freed. Most of the others died."

Director Griswold stopped Woodard and asked:

"Who rescued those prisoners who escaped?"

"Mostly prisoners," was the answer.

Night captain of the Guards John Hall next testified.

"Who has charge of the keys?" came the insistent question from Griswold.

"I have," said Hall.

"What became of them?"

"I don't know, guards and prisoners scrambled for them."

"Did you see any guards rescue any trapped convicts," the welfare director asked.

"No, the smoke was too dense."

"Did you see the flames?"

"Goodness, yes!"

And then, just as he finished, he said: "I never in my life saw so much smoke as was in that cell block."

SCHOOLY QUESTIONED

L. G. Schooley, a trusty, and former Cleveland councilman, who was sent up after being implicated in Cleveland's famous playground scandal bribery case, was another witness.

He said he was in the guard room when the first alarm was spread.

"Did you get the keys," came Griswold's question.

"I reached for the key rack, but it was empty," Schooley declared.

In contrast to that statement was the testimony of Cleveland Johnson, another trusty, who not only declared that Schooley had the keys, but also that Schooley had refused to give them to him when he had pleaded for them.

Director Griswold, after spending the better part of the night and early morning in the probe, adjourned for a brief time, but later continued the investigation in order to solve the enigma:

"Where were the keys?"

"What is your trade or profession?" Noon asked one prisoner.

"Now ain't that too bad," the convict replied. "You had better ask the judge who sent me here."

A voice from an adjoining cell shouted: "He was in the same racket as me. Put him down as a safe-cracker."

"Were you ever a member of the U. S. military or naval forces?"

"What's this? Another draft," was the sharp reply.

"What is the value of your home if owned, or monthly rental, if rented?" was another trick question.

"We are getting room and board free," was the stock reply.

"Were you employed yesterday?"

"And how," one convict replied. "I have worked every day in that jute mill for the past six months, and I haven't seen the paymaster yet."

"And your place of abode is San Quentin, Cal., is it not?"

A lifer replied "Sure. Drop in any time after working hours and you'll find me in. Suite Number 572. Ye Old Prison Cell Block."

Noon quizzed another life-termer, who called after him at the conclusion of the questions: "So long, Mr. Noon, I'll be here when you come around again in 1940."

Michael Born, Wood-Co, Being Hunted Following Dash For Freedom.

COLUMBUS, O., April 22.—One prisoner escaped during the panic which followed the disastrous Ohio Penitentiary fire last night, prison authorities reported today, following a check-up of convicts.

The missing man is Michael Born, 33, who was sentenced in Wood County to serve from one to 15 years for burglary.

Prisoners, who were questioned regarding the whereabouts of Born, told authorities that the convict was helping at the hospital during the fire.

One prisoner told officials that they saw Born slip off with a white coat belonging to a hospital interne, who had discarded it under pressure of work.

On the basis of this information, prison officials believe Born donned the white coat and calmly walked out the front gate of the prison, posing as an interne.

LANE BRUISED IN COLLISION

Goeller Truck Turns Over On Mile Hill On Lancaster-Pk Monday.

Harry Lane, 21, was injured with severe bruising Monday evening when the truck he was driving turned over on Mile Hill between Circleville and Lancaster.

The accident was caused when the truck, driven by Mrs. V. L. F. Goeller, of Columbus, sideswiped the car of the hill.

Mrs. Findley, who was injured by her husband, was taken to the hospital and is in a serious condition.

The truck, which belongs to the Goeller broom factory, was partially demolished.

WARDEN THOMAS SUSPENDS GUARD WHEN MISSING CELL BLOCK KEYS ARE RETURNED

BY H. T. HOPKINS

COLUMBUS, O., April 22.—Three hundred seventeen convicts lost their lives in the appalling fire at Ohio State penitentiary yesterday evening, a check-up by penitentiary officials showed today.

Of the 130 other prisoners who are in the hospital as the result of burns, the condition of none is critical, according to prison physicians.

However, due to exposure experienced by many, it is feared that pneumonia may develop for some, resulting fatally.

State Welfare Director Hal H. Griswold told International News Service that he was considering demanding the suspension of Warden P. E. Thomas pending a full investigation of the holocaust.

Warden Thomas today suspended Guard Thomas Watkins. When Watkins returned to the penitentiary this morning for duty, according to the warden, he entered the guard room and replaced missing cell block keys.

It was due to the missing keys that cells in the blazing section of the prison could not be promptly opened yesterday evening, Thomas asserted. He further charged that Watkins became panic-stricken after the fire started.

PATROL PEN

United States soldiers and National guardsmen, equipped with machine guns and tear-gas bombs today are patrolling the penitentiary, inside and outside, to guard against any possible attempted outbreaks of convicts.

When the fire broke out, 516 convicts were in the cell block which was ravaged by the conflagration. More than 400 escaped unscathed.

The screams of those who were being burned alive could be heard for blocks around the state prison.

And with the mingling of screaming, shrieking sirens of ambulances, fire and police wagons which dashed into the penitentiary grounds, it was a bedlam turned loose.

LOCAL MEDICS HELP AT PEN

Jonnes, Jackson and Shane Go To Columbus—Fickardt Sends Morphine.

Dr. Lloyd Jonnes, Dr. Harry D. Jackson, and Dr. E. S. Shane were the Circleville physicians, who responded to an emergency call at the penitentiary in Columbus Monday night. George H. Fickardt sent 100 one-half grain morphine tablets, when he learned the supply was short in Columbus.

The medical division of the local militia in charge of Dr. A. W. Holman, was kept ready all night, following an order to be prepared to give immediate service at the penitentiary, although it was not ordered to report.

ATHLETE HURT BY BALL BAT

John Heiskell Suffers Badly Bruised Jaw During "Ed" Period.

John Heiskell, Circleville high school senior was painfully injured Monday at 2 p. m. when he was struck in the mouth by a baseball bat swung by a fellow student. The accident happened on the school ground during physical education period.

Most of Heiskell's teeth were knocked loose and his upper jaw was badly bruised. It is not known whether the teeth will grow in again or not. The boy was treated both by Dr. G. D. Phillips, dentist and Dr. E. S. Shane.

Heiskell was the only letter man on the Circleville high school track team, and this accident will no doubt keep him from competing in the spring meet. He is the younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Roland P. Heiskell.

COLUMBUS, O., April 22.—Portions of William I. Spangler, farmer and manufacturer, of Tarlton Pickaway-co, as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for state senator from the tenth district, to be made at the August primaries, were on file here today with the Franklin-co board of elections.

The local board will issue a notice of this filing to the election board of Pickaway-co which, also is in the tenth senatorial district.

BREAK FLOODLIGHTS

The cursing convicts, hurling stones and bricks, broke floodlights with the aid of which the flames were being combated. They next tried to set fire to 400 gallons of gasoline on a fire truck, throwing a blazing blanket under the apparatus. The first fireman who attempted to drag away the burning blanket was attacked by the prison inmates. Then the jailbirds cut two leads of fire hose.

Fire Chief A. E. Nice of the Columbus department, when he tried to connect a hose to a hydrant was picked up bodily by the rebellious convicts and was thrown against a brick wall. He was not seriously hurt.

Warden Thomas today suspended Guard Thomas Watkinson. When Watkinson returned to the penitentiary this morning for duty, according to the warden, he entered the guard room and replaced missing cell block keys.

It was due to the missing keys that cells in the blazing section of the prison could not be promptly opened yesterday evening, Thomas asserted. He further charged that Watkinson became panic-stricken after the fire started.

PATROL PEN United States soldiers and National guardsmen, equipped with machine guns and tear-gas bombs today are patrolling the penitentiary, inside and outside, to guard against any possible attempted outbreaks of convicts.

When the fire broke out, 816 convicts were in the cell block which was ravaged by the conflagration. More than 400 escaped unscathed.

The screams of those who were being burned alive could be heard for blocks around the big state prison.

And with the mingling of screeching, shrieking sirens of ambulances, fire and police wagons which dashed into the penitentiary grounds, it was a bedlam turned loose.

The conflagration is believed to have been of incendiary origin, started by prisoners in the hope of escaping in the confusion. Summoned by local radio broadcasting stations, more than 1100 policemen, U. S. regular soldiers and state militiamen were soon at the scene of the fire inside the prison walls. They prevented any contemplated escapes.

The blaze originated in a new cell block which was nearing completion and which contained no wiring, making the theory of incendiary origin appear logical. A large quantity of oil which had been used in soaking cement blocks was in the cell house. Convicts are presumed to have thrown a lighted rag or paper into some of the oil.

MORGUE AT FAIRGROUND Most of the dead were taken in army trucks to an improvised morgue at the state fair grounds where 65 embalmers, some of whom had been summoned from Cincinnati, awaited them.

Appealed to by radio, doctors and nurses of surrounding towns rushed to the penitentiary and worked throughout the night with the medical people of Columbus.

National guardsmen from cities near here also speeded to the state prison to aid their comrades. The radio broadcasting stations likewise sent out orders to the naval reserves to report for duty.

The large force of soldiers, national guardsmen and officials not only precluded possible escapes, but they succeeded in quickly quelling what appeared to be the start of a serious riot among prisoners who had been turned loose into the penitentiary courtyard, within the walls.

While their fellows uttered their blood-curdling, dying cries—as they were being roasted to death—those outside the cells set fire to the pen wooden mills. Slight damage was done.

BREAK FLOODLIGHTS The cursing convicts, hurling stones and bricks, broke floodlights with the aid of which the flames were being combated. They next tried to set fire to 400 gallons of gasoline on a fire truck, throwing a blazing blanket under the apparatus. The first fireman who attempted to drag away the burning blanket were attacked by the prison inmates. Then the jailbirds cut two leads of fire hose.

Fire Chief A. E. Nice of the Columbus department, when he tried to connect a hose to a hydrant was picked up bodily by the rebelling convicts and was thrown against a brick wall. He was not seriously hurt.

COLUMBUS, O., April 22.—Petitions of William I. Spangler, farmer and manufacturer, of Tarlton, Pickaway-co, as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for state senator from the tenth district, to be made at the August primaries, were on file here today with the Franklin-co board of elections.

The local board will issue a notice of this filing to the election board of Pickaway-co which, also is in the tenth senatorial district.

John Heiskell, Circleville high school senior, was painfully injured Monday at 2 p. m. when he was struck in the mouth by a baseball bat swung by a fellow student. The accident happened on the school ground during physical education period.

Most of Heiskell's teeth were knocked loose, and his upper jaw was badly bruised. It is not known whether the teeth will grow in again or not. The boy was treated both by Dr. G. D. Phillips, dentist, and Dr. E. S. Shane.

Heiskell was the only letter man on the Circleville high school track team, and this accident will no doubt keep him from competing in the spring meet. He is the younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Roland P. Heiskell.

GIANTS ONLY TEAM IN EITHER LEAGUE AS YET UNDEFEATED

Jackson, Socks Two Homers—Washington Beats Macks—
Brooklyn Robins Win First Setto—Clint Brown Gives Tigers Five Hits.

By COPELAND C. BURG
NEW YORK, April 22.—Naturally it's a little bit too early to talk about winning pennants but just the same those aroused New York Giants look mighty sweet.

They are the only team in either league today that has not lost a game this season. They romped home yesterday, 8 to 6, in a terrific slugging matinee with the Phillies. Travis Jackson caused a lot of talk when he hit two home-runs and Melvin Ott caused more than that when he walked off the field the only Giant not to get a bingle. But Melvin need not feel so badly about it, as he drew three passes.

The world's champions Athletics dropped their initial game of the year to Washington, 6 to 3. Cronin hit Encke for a homer with one on in the fifth and clinched the win for the Senators.

And the third most interesting bit of gossip was all about how the Robbins finally shook the dust out of their wings and won a game.
They tomahawked the unruly
Braves' 15 to 8. Del Bissnette's homer, a triple with three men on, and a single was a sample of what the flock did do the Brave's hurling aces.

Home runs are still considered quite important and Adam Comorosky contributed a nice one as the Pirates won from the St. Louis Cardinals 6 to 1. Hack Wilson of the Cubs was similarly inspired in the first inning of the skirmish against the Reds.

Hack's blast passed the idea to Hartnett and even that usually poor sticker, Clyde Beck, rode the crest of a wave. With these three homers and 11 other hits the Cubs triumphed 9 to 1.

They even did some heavy hitting in the White Sox-Browns game which the pale hose won, 3 to 2.
Willie Kamm big berthaed a homer and Teddy Lyons, who pinched a beautiful game, got a three-bagger, which just about won his ball game.

The Indians got off to a whirlwind start in the first inning of their clash with Detroit, batting around the team in an attack that garnered five hits, four runs and two sacrifices. Cleveland won 6 to 1, Chilton Brown holding the Tigers to five safeties.

Beethoven's Last Work
It is not possible to say what was Beethoven's last composition. We find a reference, dated December 2, 1826, which concerns music now preserved in the Royal Library at Berlin. This is sometimes mentioned as Beethoven's last composition. On March 27, 1827, the composer wrote of "a symphony completely sketched lying in my desk, as well as a new overture and other things." This was Beethoven's tenth symphony.—Washington Star.

NEED DEFINITE PROCEDURE FOR FALL PORK MARKETING

By Dr. J. B. Hollenbeck, Veterinary Inspector.

In order to market the greatest number of pigs in the fall for the number of sows farrowing during the spring months, it is necessary to follow a certain definite procedure.

Allow a gentle, well bred, motherly sow to farrow in a clean, dry, well bedded individual house, which, according to the McLean County System, has been placed in a pasture where hogs have not pastured for one or two years. The sow should be fed sparingly for thirty-six hours after farrowing, but as the pigs grow older more feed should be given to the sow. When the pigs begin eating feed they should be fed in separate pens where they will not be bothered by the sows.

In arranging creeps for the pigs, it is much better that they pass between posts or slats than crawl under.

In addition to the alfalfa or sweet clover pasture and a ration of one-third tankage, one-third oil meal, one-third alfalfa meal and a little common salt, which the pigs can reach all times, they should be fed three and one-half pounds of ground feed daily, per one hundred pounds of pig weight. Seldom any other mixture of grain or mineral is necessary. The pigs should have plenty of clean drinking water in clean troughs.

Castration should be done when the pigs are three or four weeks old. When pigs are from eight to ten weeks old they should be given the serum and virus treatment for the prevention of hog cholera by a competent veterinarian. The work of the most skilled veterinarian available is not too expensive. The proper administration of serum and virus to healthy pigs is the only assurance the pigs have against hog cholera. Only exceptional cases is there any loss from the serum and virus treatment of healthy pigs, and if they have been farrowed in clean quarters and have been kept on clean ground there is but little danger that the pigs will contract other diseases. Sanitary houses placed on clean soil and clean feeding floors and drinking troughs will prevent most hog diseases, but hog cholera is often brought to your hogs. Prevent its development by treating the young pigs with serum and virus. Healthy suckling pigs, eight to ten weeks old, which have been housed and pastured under sanitary conditions will retain immunity conferred by serum and virus with the same degree of certainty as hogs weighing one hundred or one hundred and fifty pounds.

Many hog owners insist that the veterinarian administer the dose printed on the label of the serum bottle, but this is not always advisable. The dose printed on the label of the serum bottle is the amount of serum recommended for pigs under ideal conditions, as are found in the laboratories of a serum plant. In the field conditions are sometimes different and at least ten c.c. more serum should be given as the minimum dose, and never less than two c.c. of virus.

Hogs infected with necrotic enteritis, "flu", mange and those infested with intestinal or lung worms, and hogs in an unthrifty condition from any cause should not be treated with serum and virus until they have recovered from such condition.

TO AUCTION USED CARS AT BREHMER'S

Entire Stock of Used Automobiles To Go On Block Thursday Afternoon.

The entire used car stock of R. L. Brehmer, Ford Dealer, 210 N. Court-st., will be sold at auction Thursday, April 24th, Mr. Brehmer announced Monday.

The sale will be conducted by A. G. Johnston, nationally known auctioneer, who has been described by many newspapers throughout the country as a combination of Will Rogers and Billy Sunday.

According to Mr. Brehmer the auction will be held at their showroom, and will begin at 2:00 and 7:00 o'clock. Used cars will be brought in one at a time to go under the hammer, and ample time will be given everyone to examine the cars thoroughly. Demonstrations will be made previous to the sale.

It is said that the sale will be the biggest affair of its kind ever staged in Circleville, and it is claimed that it will afford prospective buyers the biggest bargains in Circleville automotive history.

"Our spring business has been of such great proportions that in spite of an excellent volume of used car business we have been unable to keep our used car channels clear," Mr. Brehmer declared. "If our big new car business is to continue we must move our cars at once. The auction sale is the method we choose to move them and it is certain to benefit the buyers. It is certain that many excellent used cars will be sold at the lowest prices ever known in Circleville. Our used car stock is in the best condition it has been in for many months."

Mr. and Mrs. Clydus Root, Toledo, and Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Nicholas, Obetz, who were here to attend the funeral of the late Elmer E. Root, have returned to their homes.

MANY EXPERTS AT INSTITUTE

COLUMBUS, O., April 22—

More than a score of experts from Great Britain, Canada, Mexico and the United States are expected here June 23 to July 3 for the Institute for Education by Radio to be held at the Ohio State University. They will lead discussions and read papers on the two week program sponsored jointly by the University, the State Department of Education of Ohio, and the Payne Fund of New York City.

R. S. Lambert, editor of the Listener, a magazine devoted to British broadcasting has been invited to take part in the institute. It is expected that he or some official of the British Broadcasting Commission will represent Great Britain. Negotiations are also under way for a representative of the Mexican embassy to take a place on the institute program. C. H. Mercer, of Dalhousie University, Halifax, N. S., has accepted an invitation to address the institute. Leading American broadcasting experts and educators who have definitely taken places on the program include Levering Tyson, director of home study, extension division, Columbia University; Armstrong Perry, of the U. S. office of education; John W. Elwood, vice president of the National Broadcasting System. One or two members of the federal radio commission may also appear on the program.

CURTISS-ROBIN SHIP TO FLY HERE AGAIN

With weather ideal for flying, the National Air Highways plane, piloted by F. K. Cherry, Columbus, made a number of passenger trips over this city Sunday. Those who took advantage of this new Curtiss-Robin ship were favorably impressed. Mr. Cherry expects to return again under the auspices of the local chapter of the National Aeronautical association.

Beauty of line and mechanical excellence

BEAUTY has been built into the graceful flowing lines of the new Ford and there is an appealing charm in its fresh and varied harmony of color. Yet more distinctive even than this beauty of line and color is its alert and sprightly performance.

As days go by you will find that it becomes more and more your favorite car to drive—so responsive, so easy to handle, so safe and comfortable that it puts a new joy in motoring.

The city dweller—the farmer—the industrial worker—the owner of the spacious two-car garage in the suburbs—to all of these it brings a new measure of reliable, economical service.

Craftsmanship has been put into mass production. Today, more than ever, the new Ford is "a value far above the price."

UNBALANCING NATURE

Hunters, interested in protecting game birds have been waging war on hawks and owls because they prey on the game birds. It is not a sensible thing to do according to many naturalists. Even birds of prey serve a useful purpose. They kill other birds, but they also kill harmful rodents. They help to maintain that state of affairs in the great outdoors which is known as the "balance of nature."

"Of course there has been a perceptible increase in rodents since the anti-hawk campaign began," says one naturalist, William Vogt of New York. "And it might not be out of place to say here that the hunter himself is the dupe of high-powered advertising on the part of arms and munition makers. But at present we are not concerned with rodents."

"The weak and unfit birds propagate and tularaemia infection appears. The epidemic grows and the next thing we know a fine, strong stock which would have escaped the plunge of the hawk falls before the insidiousness of the disease, from which no flight is swift enough."

It is a human failing to see only one angle of a situation and so to make mistakes. About the only ways in which it is safe to work against the balance of nature is in swatting houseflies and mosquitoes and uprooting poison ivy. Drives against birds and beasts of prey should be left to officials who know what and how much needs to be done.

MECHANIZED HOUSEWORK

A newspaper man visiting a Homes Beautiful Exposition was impressed by the amount of household labor-saving appliances on display. For about $2,000 he figures, a home could be equipped with electric washing and ironing machines, clothes dryer, incinerator, thermostat control for both house and water heating, fan ventilator, iceless refrigeration, water softener, vacuum cleaner, moth sprayer, ozone generator, electric dishwasher and a self-winding clock.

It seemed to him that, with so many aids to efficient housework, the lady in charge must have a lot of spare time on her hands these days. No wonder women seek work outside the home, he concluded.

Then he heard from the woman readers of his paper. One woman who had everything from an electric sewing machine to a completely electrified kitchen and laundry wrote him that she was just as busy as ever with housework. Whereas she used to clean once a week with a broom, she now runs over the house daily with her vacuum cleaner. Curtains that, in the old days, she cleaned only seven or eight times a year, she now washes once a month. She does more of her housework herself, instead of hiring help, because hired help often is not intelligent enough to use the electric appliances without wrecking them.

YOUTH WINS EXAMINATION

Emil Ross of Local School High, Jackson and Darby Also Win Test.

In a general scholastic test given in the Circleville high school Saturday by the state department of education, Emil Ross of Circleville high school won highest honors, Ethel Mae Reid of Jackson-twp school, won second, and Carl Eugene Mathias of Darby-twp won third high honors.

Ross' grade was 207 out of a possible 300 points. Miss Reid scored 167 and one-half points while Mathias counted 151 and one-half.

The other three students, all from Circleville, who took the test were Helen Cellar, Gladys Harris and Helen Palm. The test covered mathematics, history, science, civics and English.

The three winners have now qualified to take a district test to be held probably, at Ohio University at Athens at a date not yet settled. The student winning the state contest will receive a scholarship into one of the state colleges.

The examination was conducted by J. O. Eagleson, superintendent of city schools, M. C. Warren, superintendent of county schools, and R. H. Spangler, superintendent of the Walnut-twp school.

LITTLE CENSUS SITUATION

"SHEIK'S WIFE"

BY WINIFRED VAN DUZER

WHAT HAS HAPPENED THUS FAR.

YOUNG and unsophisticated Eve Reade meets Kenneth Wilmer, noted artist. They fall in love. Eve's friend, Mary, tries to convince her the match is unsuitable. Ken introduces Eve to his unconventional artist colony set. When Ken leaves a party with Fifi DeVoe, Eve is hurt. Nory O'Rell, author friend of Ken's also interested in Eve, drives her to Fifi's. Ken is there and rushes to Eve, telling of his longing for her. After painting Eve the next day, Ken gives a party.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XIII.

A LITTLE stir went around the table and Nory, at Eve's left, boomed in a hollow voice, "Wine!" and grinned at Ken. A special occasion, this party, and Eve flushed with a mounting excitement. She had conjured up visions of such gaiety; back in their school days Mary and she had let their imagination run riot around just such sparkling affairs. But never had she expected to be the breathless center of one with Kenneth Wilmer—of all the heroes of all their radiant dreams!—at her side.

Now old Herman was lifting the first bottle, winding it with a napkin, holding it dramatically; now he was pulling the cork, muscles in his neck standing out with the effort; now it came away with a "pop!" like a pistol report. Everybody breathed a long "Ah-h-h!"

Thin golden wine in thin shining glasses appearing magically from somewhere; everybody smiling, waiting, looking at Ken.

He got up slowly, stood very tall and handsome and merry, though his dark eyes dreamed. Then he raised his glass. "To beauty he said, 'and love.' A toast to Miss Evelyn Reade."

They all arose—all but Eve—making her little bows. This was a popular toast and she could only smile back at them, thrilled through and through, hoping she did not seem too embarrassed, loving them all.

And when they were seated Herman marched solemnly around the table filling the glasses again and everybody began to cry "O'Rell!"

Now Nory was on his feet, thin and long and winsome with his rough chair and the twinkle in his eyes. He was making a little speech about birthdays, this having been represented, he declared, as a birthday party. Well, then, since no one had stepped up to claim it, he proposed to make it the birthday of a good guy—Eve, no less.

It all was very whimsical, very sweet, and Eve kept thinking "No wonder everybody likes his stories—no wonder when he can be so funny and sad and brilliant all at the same time."

"We drink," Nory proposed, "to friendship." And his head bent toward Eve.

She caught her breath, brought out a smothered "Oh!" staring at the blur of faces. But they were waiting for her and so she, too, must rise, touch her glass to Nory's and Ken's, sip a little of the bubbling wine.

There were more toasts and everybody made it plain that she was guest of honor. And long before the merriment swirled to its height with everybody talking a little too loudly, laughing a great deal at nothing, she began to feel light and gleeful and irresponsible and very much more like a native daughter of The Lane than like a little New England girl who never had tasted champagne before.

Oddly enough it was Nory who cupped his hand over Eve's glass when old Herman would have filled it the third time. And it was Nory who started the move homeward. "Dryads need sleep," he told her softly under the clamor.

"But we're having such a scrumptious time, Nory dear." The dark, rough head bent lower; he looked very weary.

"Don't lose yourself, Eve. You are too sweet." He straightened himself suddenly, went on in the teasing, careless tone he always had used with her. "You listen to uncle, Nory. I just want to get dragged and homely, like Jan over there? Hard, like Elmer? Besides," he added, watching her thoughtfully, "this is bad for Ken. Won't work after a spree and he's always overdue with his stuff."

"Of course we'll go," Eve cried. "Right away, Nory. Why, I just never imagined—make them come at once. How fine of you to look out for Ken—"

She gave him a hurried, preoccupied smile and was too busy and birds wouldn't care for the water. Let them, Eve thought with a delighted giggle, try to criticize The Lane to her again!

Nory left abruptly since no one said good-nights here, and now she was alone with Ken. He was asking if she had liked it, if she liked him, if she always would, if she would pose tomorrow—and the next day—and the day after that.

Then they were under the lilacs and syringas and she was clinging to him and he was whispering, "Oh, don't go, Eve—don't go. Come away somewhere, Eve—"

"Where, Ken?"

"Anywhere—we'll drive and drive. Go on forever, you and I. I love you so, Eve. And you're always leaving me—always leaving me alone—"

Long after she had gone in she saw him from her window still standing there, arm along the top of the gate, head down on his arm.

Plumb blossoms fell in a soft, white shower and apple blossoms, pink and fragrant, opened in their stead. The gold of forsythia vanished as the sweet plumes of lilacs swayed in the sun. Shaded garden corners were white with valley lilies and early ramblers were bright clouds on well-kept lawns.

"Don't lose yourself, Eve. You're too sweet," said Nory.

basting about, persuading Ken not to have Herman bring more wine, coaxing him away, to see that Nory's own smile was a little grim and that a shadow lay in his eyes.

What a party it had been! They swarmed into the car, indifferent to Ken's reckless driving, laughing and shouting and singing as he dropped them at their homes. No wonder the tribe was talked about if they acted this way. But why should they care? Like stepping into another element, it was, moving from that world where everyone was staid and unimaginative and didn't know how to play, into this. They didn't approve of the tribe, those circumspect ones, but that was all very well. A fish wouldn't approve of air to live in for shy April had given place to demure May and the feel of Summer was in the air.

And Eve, Mary declared, had joined The Lane colony. But Mary did not care, really; she was proud of Eve's posing for Kenneth and her ambitions were stirred for her dearest chum. It would be pretty nice to be able to say, "My friend Mrs. Wilmer, wife of the artist, you know—"

Ever so much more dash to that than just "Mrs. Mills of Lakewood." So Mary became elaborately diplomatic about Roger, though she need not have bothered since Eve had forgotten all about him.

Research in Diseases of the Teeth

Three-Year Cooperative Study Under Way to Seek Out Causes of Decay.

By R. S. COPELAND, M. D.
U. S. Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

THAT there are unknown factors underlying diseases of the teeth, besides pyorrhea and tooth decay, is a fact that has been recognized for some time. Now it has been announced that under the direction of the Columbia School of Dental and Oral Surgery, a three-year program of research in tooth decay and diseases of the teeth has been undertaken.

There is to be a co-operative program of the Columbia Dental School with a research group at Yale, under the direction of the Rockefeller Foundation, and with other research workers in this country and Europe. It is hoped that far-reaching results will be obtained in seeking the causes of diseases of the teeth and tooth decay.

For many years the dental and medical professions have recognized the fact that dental decay, such as pyorrhea and dental decay, have their origin in faults of nutrition and diseases of the system. The old theory was that decay of the teeth was due alone to the acid films which form on the teeth by fermentation of food particles. But many persons were found to be possessed of teeth which never decayed even though these persons never used a toothbrush. Others brush their teeth often and have tooth decay.

It is to be hoped that such a study will bring a discovery of a means to prevent these defects. Tooth decay and pyorrhea are almost as prevalent today as the common cold. Think of the thousands who would be benefited by the possession of sound teeth.

From earliest childhood care of the teeth is most important. Infant feeding and continued watchful care of the diet of the growing child are essential for strong teeth in later life.

It is very necessary to know something about the nutritive value of foods in arranging the family diet. It has a direct bearing upon strong bones and sound teeth.

To a great extent, dental decay can be avoided by keeping the teeth clean. They should be brushed night and morning with a stiff brush. Food must not be allowed to collect between them.

These spaces afford lodging places for food and for bacteria to develop. Use a quill toothpick or dental floss to remove food which has been between the teeth. A good antiseptic mouth wash is excellent, but warm water and salt make a very good mouth wash.

Diseased teeth and broken teeth are the common cause of infections in the system and such infections may bring on degenerative diseases, with undermining of the general health. By regular visits to a dentist once or twice a year disease and decay of the teeth and gums are preventable. In our great cities are splendid hospitals and clinics where the teeth of the poor are attended to free of charge. There is scarcely anyone who cannot have treatment of the teeth.

says that no candidate can feel reasonably sure of a prize at this time. The winner of the first prize is as much in doubt as it was several weeks ago, and it is an established fact that the smaller prizes will come to the front this week. Several thousand votes are given for a comparatively few subscriptions and the wide-awake candidate, the one who wishes to win, the one who desires to get ahead in this world of ours will go to it hard this week, make each day mean several thousand votes to them and plan to make Wednesday, April 23 mean the winning of a fine prize.

The campaign has been going several weeks and yet there are many subscriptions unsolicited. Candidates are urged to make a most thorough canvass of their immediate territory during the short times so that when the last hour arrives every subscription will have been taken. There is only one way to win and that is by getting subscriptions. Don't let this campaign go by without your level best for some one will win the prize and just who the winners will be depends entirely upon the result of this week's work. Don't fall down on the last offer, is the advice of the writer, for if you do you will everlastingly regret it.

All candidates will redouble all previous efforts to come through on top. They will greatly appreciate all the assistance which their friends will render these last few days. It has been known where the prize was won by the obtaining of one subscription more than the other fellow. Can anyone imagine the chagrin of the loser of so close a race as that? If any candidate in this race were to lose the prize by a margin so close as that covered by a subscription or two he or she would never cease to regret the wasting of one golden hour which might have won the first grand prize.

Today Mr. Orwell Barr cast several thousand votes and again takes the lead away from the other. Mr. Barr is out every day working hard. He realizes that nothing but votes will win and he is out with his mind made up which admits of no refusals. He is closely followed by Mrs. J. O. Eagleson, Miss Louise Leonard, Miss Mary E. Phillips, Miss Louise Hoskins, Miss Melva Phillips, Mrs. R. A. Hess, Miss Lottie Wamita Downs and Mr. Dudley Mills.

All these people are selling Herald subscriptions every hour and the grand total of votes will run into the millions when the final count is made Wednesday, April 23, at 7 p. m. (sharp) in the office of the Herald Campaign.

Manner of Closing Campaign.

Candidates in the big prize campaign should read the following very carefully and act accordingly otherwise it is possible you will lose the results of the entire nine weeks' work.

The Herald campaign will come to a close April 23 at seven o'clock, Eastern Standard time, in The Herald Campaign office. The plan will be to allow each and every candidate one chance, and one only to report subscriptions after seven o'clock, but all candidates must be in the campaign headquarters at seven o'clock and remain here until they can be waited upon. They must have their reserve votes with them or have sent them in. Just as soon as each candidate has made the one report after seven o'clock, the keys to the ballot box will be handed to the judges and the final count will begin. Outside candidates must have their reserve votes and the final report in this office by seven o'clock in order to be counted.

The following business men have been chosen to officiate as judges in the closing of the campaign. Geo. P. Foreman, Postmaster; O. S. Howard, Secretary-treasurer Scioto B. & L.; A. C. Moore, Manager Midwest Box Co.

J. PARKER IS REJECTED

WASHINGTON, April 21—The nomination of Judge John J. Parker, of North Carolina, to be an associate justice of the United States supreme court, was reported unfavorably today by the senate judiciary committee.

The committee first declined to invite the jurist before it to explain his attitude toward organized labor, and the negro race. Then the nomination was debated behind closed doors for an hour and the vote taken on reporting it to the senate. The result, as announced by Senator Norris (R) of Neb., chairman was 10 to six against confirmation. This was the first time within the memory of the senate's oldest attaches that a nomination for the supreme court was reported unfavorably by the judiciary committee.

Social Activities

Miss Allison Delaplaine, Editor, Phone 581.

Mr. and Mrs. Denman Celebrate Wedding Date of 50 Years Ago

The social season in Circleville, following Lent, was inaugurated Monday, with the golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Will Denman of E. Main-st. Nearly 200 friends and relatives were included among the guest list for the family dinner at noon, or for the reception in the afternoon and evening.

Mr. Denman is the third of three brothers, who with their wives have celebrated their 50th wedding anniversaries in the past year. They are George Denman of Circleville, who was married fifty years ago last January. He is a twin brother of William Denman. Charles Denman, another brother celebrated his 50th wedding anniversary in September, at Buckeye Lake.

The occasion in Circleville Monday, with the flowers and gifts, was an expression from the 200 friends, of their respect and love for the couple, who have lived their entire lives in Pickaway-co. For 50 years Mrs. Denman has been a faithful worker in the United Brethren church, where for an extended period of time she was superintendent of the primary department of the Sunday school.

It was fitting that the golden wedding dinner should be served at the United Brethren community house. The guests arrived, and were seated at one o'clock. They found their places by means of yellow jonquil place cards. In the center of the table a three tiered wedding cake was frosted with white and trimmed in yellow. On the very top was a tiny sugar-turtle dove. This little bird had stood on the top of the cake at the wedding, 50 years before. There had been two of the ornaments, but one of them had been lost in the years that have passed.

The cake was also decorated with yellow roses, in which the 50 yellow candles had been placed.

The Rev. W. F. Rutherford, lead in prayer at the beginning of the dinner. During the several courses a short program was given. This included appropriate songs for the occasion. Mrs. Fanny Greene and Howard Greene sang a duet "When You and I were Young, Maggie". Lucile Kirkwood played the piano accompaniment.

Mrs. Mack Noggle sang "Silver Threads Among the Gold". Miss Nellie Denman was her accompanist at the piano. At this time a letter was read from the Rev. A. E. Wright a former minister at the church. It came from Zernan Springs Mich., where he is now located.

Mr. E. S. Neuding talked later, about Mrs. Denman's work in the church, which she carried on with sincerity and courage. Mr. Neuding's speech was taken from his own experience in the church for nearly 40 years, during which time Mrs. Denman was a worker there.

Guests at the dinner were Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Denman, Mr. and Mrs. George Denman, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Denman, Mrs. Harriett Denman and Mrs. Ora Pontious of Circleville; Mrs. Ida Julian, Miss Ella Hines, Miss Alma Hines of Mt. Sterling; Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Morgan of Columbus; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Denman and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Denman of Circleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Julian of Mt. Sterling; Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Julian of Columbus; Miss Nellie Denman, Rev. and Mrs. W. F. Rutherford, Mr. E. S. Neuding, Mr. and Mrs. McEwing Noggle of Circleville, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Denman, Mrs. Lois Julian Bostwick, Mrs. Orville Johnson of Columbus; Mrs. Jaycox, Buckeye Lake; Miss Laura Mantle, of Circleville; Miss Virginia Julian of Columbus; Miss Joan Julian, and Mr. Brooks Julian of Mt. Sterling, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Robinson of Coshocton, and Miss Charlotte McEwing, of Circleville.

Assisting at the dinner and the receptions in the afternoon and evening were Mrs. Lois Bostwick, Mrs. Cecil Julian, Mrs. Earl Julian, Mrs. Mack Noggle, Mrs. Robert Denman, Miss Laura Mantle, and Mrs. Alice Riegel.

Mrs. George Pontious poured at the afternoon reception, and Mrs. Ida Julian poured in the evening. The hours were from three to five and from 8 to ten o'clock.

Also assisting with the affair were Mrs. Ed. McClarren, Mrs. Will Neuding and Mrs. Kate Reichelderfer. Mrs. McClarren and Mrs. Neuding are past presidents of the U. B. Ladies aid, and Mrs. Reichelderfer is the present officer.

For the reception, the Denman residence was decorated with dogwood and red bud branches, in every room. Every available space was used for the baskets of beautiful flowers, and the gifts, which had been heaped upon the couple on this remarkable occasion.

The wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Denman was an event of April 21, 1880, at the home of her parents in Madison-twp. Before the marriage, Mrs. Denman was Clara Hines. The wedding in that year was also close to Easter, and had been at noon, similar to the golden wedding anniversary.

Mr. Denman was born in Circleville, and was a grocer for a great many years. Both he and Mrs. Denman are 73 years of age. Many relatives claim this couple as their own, but not with more devotion than do hundreds of just friends. Hundreds of the residents in Circleville were interested in the celebration, in which Will Denman followed his twin brother, and another brother, who were present at the golden wedding.

DINNER GUESTS IN ASHVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Orion King, of W. High-st. Circleville, and Mrs. Paul Cromley of Ashville were dinner guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Millar in Ashville. The dinner was served at noon.

CLUB WOMEN AT CONVENTION

Mrs. Glenn Nickerson and Miss Carrie Johnson went to Columbus Tuesday morning to attend the thirty-fourth annual convention of the Ohio Federation of Women's clubs. The convention began Tuesday, and will end Friday night.

State officials will take part in the opening session Tuesday evening.

O. E. S. INITIATION THIS EVENING

There will be initiation this evening in connection with the regular meeting of the Order of Eastern Star. The meeting will open at 7:30 p. m. Members of Group No. 1, are requested to be present to meet with their worthy matron.

WOMEN'S CLUB PLANS DINNER

The Business and Professional Women's club will have a dinner meeting, Thursday evening at six o'clock, prompt. Twenty five cents will be charged per plate. Miss Nellie A. Anderson is chairman, and reservations should be made with her. After dinner a trip through the new hospital is planned.

The card party the following night, at the Circleville Athletic Club, to be sponsored by the Business and Professional Women's club, is being given for their hospital room fund. Everyone wishing to aid in this cause is asked to call Miss Sallie Lynch, to engage a table at the party.

BRIDGE CLUB IS ENTERTAINED

Mrs. R. R. Eales entertained her bridge club Monday night, with Mrs. Benton T. Hedges as a substitute guest. Mrs. Brunelle Downing of Springfield, a member of the club, when she is in Circleville, was also present.

Mrs. George Littleton had the honor of receiving the prize for making the highest score.

DINNER GUESTS FOR EASTER

Mr. and Mrs. Milton P. Manson had for their dinner guests on Easter Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Russell Dent of Chillicothe, Mr. Earl Cook of Columbus, and Mr. Ross Manson of McConnelsville, O.

THE JAY TOBIAS REVUE

The Jay Tobias Revue, here soon on the local Interstate Entertainment Course, directed by that master comedian, Jay Tobias, is an evening of marvelous mimicry, music and song by two outstanding entertainment artists. It has "class" written all over it, something that sets it entirely apart from the usual run.

It is extremely difficult to describe the work of this young genius Tobias—for he is just that. Everything he does is funny. He plays the piano and accordion like a master musician and then uses these instruments to depict comedy. His fun is uproarious—the kind that makes your sides split, your vest buttons pop—and brings down the house. But there is nothing rough or coarse about his work at any time. In his caricatures of rural types, he suggests Chic Sale at his best; but all his burlesques, characterizations, comic female impersonations, etc., are entirely original and unique. He writes all his own material which is protected by copyright, such as "Aunt Mary of the Movies," "The Prima Donna," "The Old Settler," "Signor Hezanauts" and the hilariously funny School Entertainment sketch.

NO THANKS, NO 'SCARE' ADVERTISING TODAY!

As much as we believe in advertising, we find ourselves getting darned peeved with the ballyhoo of some people who have things to sell. It's getting so that we can't pick up a magazine any more without noting what an uncertain thing life is, after all. If we don't eat Soandos's yeast, or breakfast food, our friends won't like us. We'll be one of the 4 out of 5 penniless during our deluge, unable to speak to the waiter in Egyptian, and suffer the unspeakable shame of athletes' foot. A pretty pass, we call it. Matters are becoming not only topsy but somewhat turvy, too.

So, should anyone ask us, how we stand, we're saying, no 'scare' advertising today. Superlatives perhaps, for who could help but become enthusiastic over such items as Estate Heatrola, Bigelow-Sanford Rugs, Bee Vac Vacuum Cleaners, etc.? We want you to buy our merchandise, but there's no penalty if you don't. No social ostracism. No cause to leave town.

Quality, moderate price and satisfactory service constitute our ballyhoo. We've told you about it, before and maybe it's a bit tiresome now. But they are three selling points we are proud of. They have made us a host of fine friends. They represent the results of a square deal. They are the things you receive when you trade here.

That is our pudding. Come in for the proof.

Nobody would call Housecleaning a favorite indoor sport, but Bee Vac Electric Cleaner owners insist it's not as black as it's painted. Phone us for your free trial. The number is 334.

You don't have to hire a sleuth to discover how much things cost when you trade here. Prices are marked in our store.

A Cavalier Cedar Chest offers safe storage for your furs, woolen blankets and other appetizing delicacies which would cause any epicurean moth's mouth to water.

Traveler. I would like a room. Anything doing?
Clerk: I have them at $1.25 and $2.00 a night.
Traveler: What's the difference?
Clerk: Not much. Only the two dollars ones have rat traps in them.

Another thing that is hard to understand is how a tire that is fixing to blow out knows when you have on your best suit.

What's the use of buying fresh meats and fresh vegetables if you have to throw them away before you use them? Why not order one of the 1930 Gibson Refrigerators? A size for every home: easy on ice; and preserves food indefinitely.

See us for a complete selection of living room, dining room, bed room furniture, chairs, tables, rugs, linoleums and all sorts of whatnots.

The captain leaned over the rail and smiled sweetly: "Oh, yes, dear, and you write me sometime, too."

One day last week we installed one of the new model Estate Gas Ranges with the Heat Retaining Ovens in the home of a resident of the city. H. G. stopped to inquire how she was getting along and was told this story. Her first attempt at baking was a cake. And, by the way, it was perfectly baked. As she wished to ice it with chocolate, she thought that she would melt the chocolate on top of the oven while the cake was baking. Did she do it? She did not. There was not enough heat coming through the top of the oven to melt it. During the coming summer hot days, this lady will keep that "cool girl complexion" while baking on the hottest of days. And, she'll save gas, too. It takes but a few minutes to heat the oven to the required temperature. Then the gas is automatically turned off and the baking is done without fire. Why should you suffer with the heat of baking, or use gas when it is not necessary? Better look into this "popolation," as Amos 'n' Andy says, right now and be prepared for the hot days that are coming.

For those living beyond city gas mains, we recommend the use of Pyrofax Gas Service. Farmers and others may have the same satisfactory use of an Estate gas range as the lady mentioned above by using Pyrofax. See us right now. We'll explain it to you more fully.

Right now is the time to think of trellises for your garden vines. As usual, our store is headquarters for such articles.

And that reminds us that it is also time to be thinking of swings, both wood and canvas. We have both kinds, and at fair prices.

One of our readers advised that we have just taken over the agency for the famous Kelvinator Electric Refrigerator and called to see them. She informed us that one of her friends, who lives in another state, had one and was very enthusiastic about her Kelvinator. We have yet to hear of any one that was not enthused over one of that make. So, we are more convinced than ever that we made no mistake in taking the agency. Drop in some time and let us show you how the Kelvinator maintains three to four different temperatures without any attention from the owner. This feature is exclusively Kelvinator.

Mr. and Mrs. Denman Celebrate Wedding Date of 50 Years Ago

The social season in Circleville, following Lent, was inaugurated Monday, with the golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Denman of E. Main-st. Nearly 200 friends and relatives were included among the guest list for the family dinner at noon, or for the reception in the afternoon and evening.

Mr. Denman is the third of three brothers, who with their wives have celebrated their 50th wedding anniversaries in the past year. They are George Denman of Circleville, who was married fifty years ago last January. He is a twin brother of William Denman. Charles Denman, another brother celebrated his 50th wedding anniversary in September, at Buckeye Lake.

The occasion in Circleville Monday, with the flowers and gifts, was an expression from the 200 friends, of their respect and love for the couple, who have lived their entire lives in Pickaway-co. For 50 years Mrs. Denman has been a faithful worker in the United Brethren church, where for an extended period of time she was superintendent of the primary department of the Sunday school.

It was fitting that the golden wedding dinner should be served at the United Brethren community house. The guests arrived, and were seated at one o'clock. They found their places by means of yellow jonquil place cards, in the center of the table a three tiered wedding cake was frosted with white and trimmed in yellow. On the very top was a tiny sugar turtle dove. This little bird had stood on the top of the cake at the wedding, 50 years before. There had been two of the ornaments, but one of them had been lost in the years that have passed.

The cake was also decorated with yellow roses in which the 50 yellow candles had been placed.

The Rev. W. F. Rutherford, lead in prayer at the beginning of the dinner. During the several courses a short program was given. This included appropriate songs for the occasion. Mrs. Fanny Greeno and Howard Greeno sang a duet "When You and I were Young, Maggie". Lucile Kirkwood played the piano accompaniment.

Mrs. Mack Noggle sang "Silver Threads Among the Gold". Miss Nellie Denman was her accompanist at the piano. At this time a letter was read from the Rev. A. E. Wright a former minister at the church. It came from Berrian Springs Mich., where he is now located.

Mr. E. S. Neuding talked later, about Mrs. Denman's work in the church, which she carried on with sincerity and courage. Mr. Neuding's speech was taken from his own experience in the church for nearly 40 years, during which time Mrs. Denman was a worker there.

Guests at the dinner were Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Denman, Mr. and Mrs. George Denman, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Denman, Mrs. Harriett Denman and Mrs. Ora Pontious of Circleville; Mrs. Ida Julian, Miss Ella Hines, Miss Alma Hines of Mt. Sterling; Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Morgan of Columbus; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Denman and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Denman of Circleville; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Julian of Mt. Sterling; Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Julian of Columbus; Miss Nellie Denman, Rev. and Mrs. W. F. Rutherford, Mr. E. S. Neuding, Mr. and Mrs. McEwing Noggle of Circleville; Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Denman, Mrs. Lois Julian Bostwick, Mrs. Orville Johnson of Columbus; Mrs. Jaycox, Buckeye Lake; Miss Laura Mantle, of Circleville; Miss Virginia Julian of Columbus; Miss Joan Julian, and Mr. Brooks Julian of Mt. Sterling, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Robinson of Coshocton, and Miss Charlotte McEwing, of Circleville.

Assisting at the dinner and the receptions in the afternoon and evening were Mrs. Lois Bostwick, Mrs. Cecil Julian, Mrs. Earl Julian, Mrs. Mack Noggle, Mrs. Robert Denman, Miss Laura Mantle, and Mrs. Alice Riegel.

Mrs. George Pontious poured at the afternoon reception, and Mrs. Ida Julian poured in the evening. The hours were from three to five and from 8 to ten o'clock.

Also assisting with the affair were Mrs. Ed. McClarren, Mrs. Will Neuding and Mrs. Kate Reichelderfer. Mrs. McClarren and Mrs. Neuding are past presidents of the U. B. Ladies aid, and Mrs. Reichelderfer is the present officer.

For the reception, the Denman residence was decorated with dog wood and red bud branches, in every room. Every available space was used for the baskets of beautiful flowers, and the gifts, which had been heaped upon the couple on this remarkable occasion.

The wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Denman was an event of April 21, 1880, at the home of her parents in Madison-twp. Before the marriage, Mrs. Denman was Clara Hines. The wedding in that year was also close to Easter, and had been at noon, similar to the golden wedding anniversary.

Mr. Denman was born in Circleville, and was a grocer for a great many years. Both he and Mrs. Denman are 73 years of age. Many relatives claim this couple as their own, but not with more devotion than do hundreds of just friends. Hundreds of the residents in Circleville were interested in the celebration, in which Will Denman followed his twin brother, and another brother, who were present at the golden wedding.

DINNER GUESTS IN ASHVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Orion King, of W. High-st Circleville, and Mrs. Paul Cronley of Ashville were dinner guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Millar in Ashville. The dinner was served at noon.

CLUB WOMEN AT CONVENTION

Better look into this "popolition," as Amos 'n' Andy says, right now and be prepared for the hot days that are coming.

For those living beyond city gas mains, we recommend the use of Pyrofax Gas Service. Farmers and others may have the same satisfactory use of an Estate gas range as the lady mentioned above by using Pyrofax. See us right now. We'll explain it to you more fully.

Right now is the time to think of trellises for your garden vines. As usual, our store is headquarters for such articles.

And that reminds us that it is also time to be thinking of swings, both wood and canvas. We have both kinds, and at fair prices.

One of our readers noticed that we have just taken over the agency for the famous Kelvinator Electric Refrigerator and called to see them. She informed us that one of her friends, who lives in another state, had one and was very enthusiastic about her Kelvinator. We have yet to hear of any one that was not enthused over one of that make. So, we are more convinced than ever that we made no mistake in taking the agency. Drop in some time and let us show you how the Kelvinator maintains three to four different temperatures without any attention from the owner. This feature is exclusively Kelvinator.

"Happy Days are Here Again"
